99 MAGICAL ISLANDS

Langkawi is one of South East Asia’s best kept secrets. Located in the Andaman Sea off Malaysia’s northwest peninsula, it comprises 99 islands which are mostly covered in rainforest. Its beaches are some of the region’s best and all but three islands remain in their natural state. Visitors can relax and do absolutely nothing, or for those who love nature and adventure, there’s sailing, watersports, jungle treks, diving, mangrove excursions, fishing, mountain climbing and visits to local villages.

While few buildings are higher than the coconut trees, Langkawi has excellent infrastructure including an international airport, cruise liner berth, fine restaurants, shops and unique tourist attractions.

Langkawi is easily accessible by air with flights from Kuala Lumpur, Penang and Singapore. Ferries connect to the mainland, Penang and southern Thailand. Visitors to Langkawi can also explore mainland attractions in Perlis and Kedah.

Langkawi has been gazetted as the region’s first UNESCO Geopark in recognition of its fascinating geological formations. This 478km² park protects mountainous peaks, waterfalls, caves and lakes as well as the island’s unique flora and fauna.

Visitors can ride a cable car to the summit of Mount Machincang (713m), one of South East Asia’s oldest rock formations dating back 550 million years (dinosaurs date back 230 million years!). The summit of Mount Raya (880m) is accessible by road and is popular with birdwatchers.

THE FRANGIPANI SPA – A SANCTUARY BY THE SEA

The Frangipani Spa is a sanctuary by the sea to gently restore your physical and mental wellbeing. The signature treatment at the Frangipani Spa is a soothing combination of Malay, Thai and Balinese therapies. Exclusively-sourced products from the Asian region will leave you feeling calm, relaxed and tranquil.

Included in the spa is an exclusive anti-oxidant sauna – a retreat surrounded by an anti-oxidant rich and climate-controlled environment to help the body fight free radicals, to encourage anti-ageing and to rejuvenate your body. This uses new breakthrough technology with over two million negative ions and infrared rays to create nature’s way to wellness.
